

Welcome to the latest issue of Pension Matters.

In this issue, we look at our latest cost of living research and how you can support your employees during this time. We're also promoting our latest pension webinar 'What happens when I'm gone?' which will cover what you and your employees need to know about pension death benefits, including tax implications and the importance of having beneficiaries set up.

Our latest cost of living research

Clare Moffat our pension expert looks at our recent research into the affect the cost of living is still having on people and how you might be able to help your employees at this time.
